being and belonging - Community and Citizenship -

co-operative perspectives.

This co-operative learning conference will give delegates a chance to explore and understand the interaction between individuals, groups and communities:

■ In active plenary sessions, a chance to explore and understand the interaction between identity and social cohesion. Who are you? How come? What groups are you part of? How do we and should we interact? What is the co-operative perspective on all of this?

■ We are encouraging more young delegates this year to inform the debates with their important perspectives.

There will be ample down time for reflection and social networking. After the evening meals we offer co-operative fun and a bar to consolidate our thinking - both optional of course!

■ There will also be many workshops and case studies to choose from including:

The conference works on many levels: a social and professional networking opportunity, a personal journey, a sharing of ideas and expertise, a celebration and exploration of current co-operative thinking plus a good dollop of fun.

'Exploring intergenerational boundaries'

'Toolbox of co-operative learning techniques to take home'

'Spiritual, moral, social and cultural development – challenges and delights'

'How co-operative learning structures enable creativity and inclusion'.

The aim is to value and invigorate educators and co-operators so...

be there ...and belong!

Conference Arrangements – In addition to the Delegate fee of £195.00, we would encourage you to arrive the previous evening – Thursday 8th July - and join with colleagues for a meal and an evening of 'co-operative' socialising. Thursday night meal, accommodation and Friday morning breakfast at £40.00. Day delegate rates on application.

In 2009 Delegates said

"You never disappoint. The energy, professionalism, dynamism and expertly planned programme came through yet again"

"...an outstanding example of a conference which practices at all times that which it sets out to promote. Put me down for 2010, please!"

"Thank you so much for a wonderful, inspiring, challenging, though provoking, inclusive, energising and FUN Interact 2009 Conference."

"I have found it a really valuable conference in terms of finding out new information, methods for teaching and learning and networking. I really don't think there is anything else quite like it."
